

RETURN VERDICT IN FAVOR OF THE DEFENDANT IN CASE

Florence E. Ueltzen, New Britain Twp., Wins Suit
For Stolen Evergreens

BEFORE JUDGE KELLER

23 Lombardy Poplars, Dogwoods and Willow Trees
Were Involved

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 20.—A jury of eight women and four men Friday returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the Bucks County civil court action of Florence E. Ueltzen, of New Britain township, against the plaintiffs, John Tully, of Salford, Montgomery county and his brother, Peter, of 259 South 17th street, Philadelphia, and Jacques Merrill, of the same address.

The case was tried before President Judge Hiram H. Keller and was under way for two full days. The plaintiff sued for damages amounting to $672 for 23 trees for the alleged removal of trees.

John Tully and his brother, Peter, are Philadelphia osteopaths and Jacques is a naturopath. The plaintiff is a Temple University X-ray technician.

The plaintiff testified that she saw the three defendants, the Drs. Tully's parents and another woman on her property in New Britain township on Easter Sunday, April 21, 1946. One member of the party was holding a spade and had dug up a tree, Miss Ueltzen testified. She was not able to testify whether the man was one of the three defendants or the elder Dr. Tully, the father of two of the defendants.

The plaintiff, who said she owned the 33 acre farm, 25 acres of which are in nursery stock, testified that no one of the party came to the house to see her about visiting the shrubbery or trees, but that she found them in the nursery.

The plaintiff testified that several days later she found that 23 Lombardy poplars, dogwoods and willow trees had been removed from her farm and were transplanted on the defendants' country home in Salford township, Montgomery county.

The plaintiff denied that when she bought her farm in New Britain township there were any reservations mentioned in the deed or other agreement concerning the sale of shrubbery or trees.

"I saw my Lombardy poplars, dogwood trees and weeping willows planted on the defendants' farm on April 28, when I drove by their place," the plaintiff testified.

AIRLINER CRASHES

A continuing series of airplane crashes inspired the United States Senate Commerce Committee to send for the Civil Aeronautics Board for a discussion of "the whole air picture." Judging by the comments of some Senators, they believe that the recent fatal accident record of American air transport has shaken the people's confidence in the safety of travel by air and may retard the normal development of the country's world air commerce.

The record shows that although 75 persons lost their lives in American airliner crashes in 1946, there was only one death to 60,000,000 miles traveled. This is the best record chalked up by American air transportation since 1939. It seems to suggest that the airlines are in effect paying the penalty of increased business. A disquieting feature is that last year's record was not as good as that of 1939. And if the accident rate of the first three weeks of the new year is maintained, 1947 fatalities will far exceed the 75 persons killed last year.

Improvement is forecast as ports are enlarged and more ports are provided with facilities for escorting pilots on to fields by radar equipment. Foul weather accounted for some of the recent accidents. Pilots could not make port and could not see ports within range of their fuel supply. Low flying in mountainous territory where bad weather and tricky air currents are recognized hazards has been criticized. The recent narrow escape of two passenger planes after a midair collision aroused speculation as to whether safety devices are being required by the CAB to a sufficient extent to make the most of known protections from accidents.

Congressional inquiry should not be assumed to condemn the airlines, but it seems to be warranted by apprehension among the people. It should be both searching and constructive.

ONE-WAY BOTTLES

Something apparently has to be done if goods that come in bottles are to continue to come in bottles.

There is a serious shortage of bottles affecting principally dairymen, brewers and makers of soft drinks. It is so serious they have hired public relations experts to start a campaign.

The campaign is aimed at getting the empties returned. Bottle makers cannot get enough materials to meet the demand for bottles. The answer lies in laying hands on as many as possible of the amazing total of 25,000,000 milk, 10,000,000 soft drink and nobody knows how many beer bottles that went out and never came back.

It is estimated that from six to two dozen empty bottles are gathering dust in virtually every house in the country. It would cost nothing and help much if they were turned in.

To the dismay of federal jobholders, Republican congressional leaders continue to talk of reducing income taxes with the election over.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Jan. 10, 1895. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Bristol's ice harvest closed on Saturday, the dealers having housed over 3,000 tons of nine-inch ice from the Silver Lake ponds.

The annual election of directors of the Farmers National Bank was held last Tuesday, and the old board was re-elected. The directors are: Edward Thomas, Louis A. Hognet, Elwood Burton, J. P. Agnew, M. D., John Burton, Benjamin F. Taylor, George A. Shoemaker, Harvey H. Gillam and Edward Swain. At a meeting of the directors Benjamin F. Taylor was unanimously re-elected president.

The Rev. James M. Harlow, of the Presbytery of Geneva, died at Shortsville, N. Y., Dec. 13, 1894, in the 87th year of his age. His last pastorate was at Shortsville from 1879 to 1883, and he has since resided there.

Mr. Harlow was formerly the minister of the Presbyterian Church of this place. In Rev. Dr. Murphy's "History of the Presbytery of the Log College," he has the following to say of the Rev. Mr. Harlow: "The Presbyterian Church of Bristol owes its origin to the energy and self-denying efforts of Rev. Mr. Harlow, who came from Centerville to Bristol, and moved in the matter of its organization, and especially in the work of the erection of a house of worship, as early as the spring of 1844."

(Following Items from Gazettes of January, 1895)

Thirteen appears to be an unlucky number. Officers Wilkinson and Tice, of Bristol, and railroad detective Brown, captured a gang of 13 tramps below Bristol one day last week and landed them in the county jail.

Chairman B. F. Gilkeson, of the Republican State Committee, is to be appointed by Governor Hastings, banking commissioner, as soon as the bill to establish a new banking department is passed.

The 13 tramps sent up from Bristol to Doylestown are industriously breaking stone for the benefit of the streets of Doylestown. Why not save the county the expense of hauling tramps from Bristol to the county seat by providing a stone-pile in this borough.

Mr. Albert Baker, one of Bristol's best citizens, died at his residence on the corner of Walnut and Cedar streets last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Baker had for a few days been confined to his bed by typhoid fever. He was 36 years of age. Mr. Baker was the son of the late Edward Baker, ex-county treasurer. He was engaged in the coal and ice business here in connection with E. W. Munster.

The Middletown school board has appointed George Douglass, Sr., of Hulmeville, a director in place of Lewis P. Townsend, resigned.

The committee on pastoral relations of the Bristol M. E. Church have recommended the appointment of the Rev. Charles H. Rorer, now stationed at Chestnut Hill, as the successor of Rev. Mr. E. E. Burris.

The property in Philadelphia at the corner of 12th and Spruce streets belonging to the Bristol M. E. Church, was sold last week for $18,000, and the Rousseau property at the corner of Mulberry and Cedar streets has been purchased for $12,000. The erection of a new church building will be begun as soon as possible after the church obtains possession.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Lyndall, widow of the late James Y. Lyndall, Esq., dropped dead suddenly this morning while rising from her bed. Mrs. Lyndall was one of the old residents of Bristol, having lived here for upwards of 40 years. She was 81 years of age.

Mrs. Mary Blackwood, widow of Philip Blackwood, died at the residence of her son, William Blackwood, last Monday, in the 85th year of her age. She was an active and consistent member of St. James' Episcopal Church for more than 60 years.

APPROPRIATIONS

of the simplest and most understandable forms of inflation, a variety once known and justly feared under the name of "fiat currency."

How far the Truman procedure forced ahead any currency inflation would be easily figured — except for the fact that, for the first time in years, Federal Reserve reports began omitting one of the most significant of their statistics — "money in circulation."

Whether this was by coincidence, or because the picture got so bad it was decided to conceal it, has never been announced.

Just a few days ago, with a great burst of headlines the White House announced a new version of the same transaction. This time it was $1,400,000,000 in unspent appropriations which were to be turned over to the Treasury to be drawn upon by new spending.

This is pure sleight of hand. No one who has a clear understanding of what "money" really is, and of the various imitations which have been invented, will be fooled a minute.

Unfortunately, "the man in the street" doesn't know enough about the subject to see where the "gimmick" is; he is firmly convinced that the subject of economics is beyond his comprehension, and he gets stage fright when anyone tries to explain.

Yet the fallacy is easy enough to expose. Long ago, logicians invented a process which they gave the weighty name of reductio ad absurdum. This is used to reveal errors in arguments. It consists of carrying forward or projecting a theory considerably farther than the man who advanced it intended.

If an appropriation by congress becomes an asset to be considered as money, then why cannot Congress wipe out the whole debt at one stroke by simply passing an appropriation for its total, and letting the President use the "funds" for that purpose?

Of course no one thinks such a plan would "work." They will know there is a catch to it. But, if it is obvious it won't work for the whole debt, why is anyone fooled that it is working for part of the debt — or for current expenditures either?

The catch is that a mere appropriation doesn't create money, any more than the act of refusing to buy something we see creates "savings." The first process would solve all problems of government finance, if it were sound just as the second would make anyone rich by simply strolling through a shopping district.

The vast difference between appropriations and money can be shown in another simple fashion. We all know that the United States has a national debt of about $266 billions. It has spent that much more than it had money to pay for. Yet every cent it spent was by appropriation.

Now, if appropriations constituted money, how could we ever have gone in debt?

There is one point, and only one point, at which appropriations even look like money; and that is when there is either income or reserves on hand to cover them, which are ear-marked by the appropriation. Even then, it is the ear-marked funds, and not the appropriation, which are the money.

But never since 1933 has such a situation existed at Washington. Such a condition exists only in a government which is keeping its books in balance — not one which is going in debt.

In Washington for the past fourteen years, appropriations haven't been the ear-marking of funds on hand, but the mere authorization to go ahead and "spend" — that is, to run a bill. When the receipts come in, the Treasury has paid off what it could of the bills. Never have its receipts been enough for this purpose. The deficits and debts amply prove that statement.

There isn't now, and hasn't been, money or any other tangible assets squarely behind the "appropriations" which the President now persists in treating as though they were some kind of gilt-edged securities.

They are evidences of debt, nothing more.

Trying to treat them as assets, and hailing their discovery with all the glee of treasure hunters finding a buried chest of pirate gold, is just as silly as the thinking of the hero of the old story:

"You ought to buy one of these stoves," said the salesman. "It will save half your fuel bill."

"Fine," said the customer, "I'll take two and save it all!"

John Setzer, Cathill road, near Telford, testified that he assisted one of the defendants, Dr. John Tully, dig out 150 dogwoods, eight weeping willows and 25 poplars and transplant them on the Montgomery county farm. "I asked a Mrs. Simpson if she had a permit to do this and the money to pay for them and she told me to do as ordered," the witness said.

Miss Grace Merrill, of near Telford, who sold the property to the three osteopaths, testified she noticed some new shrubbery and trees there.

Miss Lucille Landers, of New Britain township, who lives at the plaintiff's home, testified the nursery was left in a "hit or miss fashion and that some one cleaned out a good section."

The first of the trio of defendants, Dr. John Tully, who maintains an office apartment at 259 South Seventeenth street, Philadelphia, testified that they merely strolled through the nursery to see the stock and denied that anyone in the party removed a tree or carried a spade.

Dr. Tully was subjected to a merciless cross-examination by C. William Freed, counsel for the plaintiff, and also excoriated by the Court because he, a co-owner, could give no logical explanation why shrubbery appeared on his place.

His associate, Dr. Jacques D. Merrill, who could not explain satisfactorily the presence of the shrubbery as a co-owner, was also subjected to a biting cross-examination.

he required constant nursing attention those first four months. Today, still in the hospital, he has, thanks to the March of Dimes, recovered use of his left hand and arm and spends several hours each day in a "walker" learning how to use his legs again.

"The expensive cost of hospital treatment and prolonged care has been paid in full by the Murray County Chapter, supplemented with funds from the National Foundation's March of Dimes in fulfillment of the pledge that no one stricken with 'polio' need go untreated for lack of money, regardless of age, race, creed or color."

Epidemics Costly
"Local Chapters of the National Foundation, with money raised through the annual March of Dimes for this purpose, stand ready throughout the nation to offer financial assistance whenever and wherever the disease strikes," Mrs. Megargee continued.

Individuals are urged to contribute to the fight against "polio", making donations in the collection boxes in the theatres, industrial plants or business places, or mailing checks to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, care of Mrs. Theodore B. Megargee, R. D. 1, Bristol.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

WHEN a vegetable is plentiful and bears a reasonable price tag, American housewives find it both thrifty and wise to use it as often as possible. This is especially true these days. The white potato, generally recognized as the nation's favorite vegetable, is served regularly by practically every family in America, because it is plentiful in supply and reasonable in price.

Potatoes have more than earned their popularity. They have an extremely high vitamin and mineral content which makes them an important addition to the daily diet, according to the A & P Service for Home-Makers. During the war years, potatoes received the praise of countless consumers by working double time in extending the reduced supplies of meat and other commodities available. With the international food picture still making it essential that American thriftiness be continued, the versatile "spud" is again ready for extra duty right down the line.

By themselves, potatoes help any meal whether they are boiled, baked, fried, mashed, oven-roasted or scalloped. They combine well with small quantities of meat or other leftovers to feature countless dishes such as stews, hashes, or casseroles of all sorts. As a salad base, they furnish taste and substance for a wholesome repast. In soups and chowders or in any type of stuffing, potatoes always play an important role. They dress up codfish balls or Shepherd's pie, while palate ticklers like potato pancakes, potato bread or dumplings are enjoyed by many people.

For Sunday dinner, serve pan-roasted potatoes, browned around a roast stuffed shoulder of lamb, with green beans, jelly, a lettuce and tomato salad, chocolate layer cake, and a beverage.

THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB!

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.

Advices every sufferer from Rheumatic--Arthritic--Sciatic--Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip--knee--calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at United Cut Rate Store. Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money. (Advertisement).

The residue goes to Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital.

We Are Reducing Prices of All Ford Cars

"as much as $50 on some models"

Effective Immediately

A Statement by Henry Ford II

"Although more than one million of our customers are waiting for delivery of their cars at present prices, we are immediately reducing the price of every Ford car—some models as much as $50.

"This is our 'down payment' toward a continued high level of production and employment in the months ahead. We believe that the 'shock treatment' of prompt action is needed to halt the insane spiral of mounting costs and rising prices and to restore a sound base for the hopeful period of post-war production we are now entering.

"Let me review briefly the considerations which have led us to take this important step.

"The Ford Motor Company is in the mass production business. Mass production depends upon large markets. It will continue to succeed only if it can produce more and more at lower and lower cost so that more and more people can buy. Large markets begin to disappear when prices rise.

"The un-American spiral of mounting costs and rising prices has hurt everybody—some groups more than others. Many have not benefited from post-war wage increases, but have had to share the burden of resulting higher prices. Already, millions of American families are unable to buy the things which, in normal times, make up their standard of living. In the short view, we can see inflation. In the long view, there is danger of depression.

"The period since V-J Day has been an unhappy and costly period of reconversion to peacetime production. Ford Motor Company has lost millions of dollars since V-J Day, even after all tax adjustments.

"But the crisis of this wild aftermath of war seems to have been passed. Our own production, though still limited by material shortages, is now steadier. Productivity of our employees, which hit a new low during the period, seems to have started its return to normal. Ford Motor Company made a modest profit for the last three months of 1946, and we intend to continue to operate in the black.

"The American economy now stands at a turning point. Mounting costs and rising prices have warranted caution and hesitancy. There is even general fear that this dangerous, un-American cycle cannot be corrected without an economic recession. We think this fear can be dispelled by common sense and action. And among free men that becomes an individual responsibility.

"The Ford Motor Company therefore proposes to accept its losses since V-J Day as an item of the cost of a great and victorious war. We are closing our books on that phase of our production history. We have decided that now is the time for us to make an investment in the future.

"Because they must build up depleted cash reserves or because they are still losing money, many businesses may not be able to follow suit. But we hope that our suppliers, our employees, and our other economic partners will back, each to his own ability, our attempt to return to the economic pattern which has helped to make America great—the principle that higher wages and a higher standard of living for all depend upon lower costs and lower prices through increasingly efficient large-scale production.

"We hope, as we move forward, that we will be able to reduce prices further, and that we will not be forced to raise them again to compensate for cost increases."

Henry Ford II

PRESIDENT, FORD MOTOR COMPANY

PEOPLE ARE ASKING THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT ARMY ENLISTMENT

Q. What educational benefits do I get under the GI Bill of Rights?

A. If you serve honorably on active duty for a period of 90 days, one day of which is served between September 16, 1940, and the date of termination of the present war, or you are discharged because of an actual service-incurred injury or disability incurred within that first 90-day period, you are, upon discharge, entitled to one year of education in the college, trade or business school of your choice for which you can qualify. In addition, each month of active duty, including the first three, prior to the end of the war, entitles you to another month of post-service education, up to 48 months. Your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year will be paid by the government. Also, you will receive $65 a month living allowance; $90 a month if you have dependents.

Q. What about family allowances?

A. For men enlisting or reenlisting now, family allowances will continue until six months after the war is officially ended.

Q. What are my chances of going overseas?

A. If you enlist for 3 years, you may select to serve in any overseas theater which has openings, especially Japan or Korea.

Q. Can I still choose the branch of service I want to serve in?

A. Yes. You can pick any branch which has quotas to be filled, if you enlist for 3 years.

Q. Is there any way I can reenlist in my old grade?

A. Yes, you can, if you reenlist for a 3-year term within 20 days after your honorable discharge.

Q. Is there any other way I can reenlist in grade?

A. Yes, if you held one of certain military occupational specialties, and were discharged on or after May 12, 1945, you can reenlist in a grade depending on the length of time you held the desired M. O. S.

The Great Game of Politics

rather convincingly attested by the fact that though, since Congress met, he has delivered three important messages, sent a number of major appointments to the Senate and expressed himself on several highly controversial matters, there has come neither from the Republicans nor the hostile "liberal" groups in his own party any serious allegation that Mr. Truman is playing politics; that anything he has said or done has been politically inspired.

NEITHER his words nor deeds have been entirely acceptable to all groups and both parties. His budget message has been properly assailed and he has by no means been free of criticism in other directions. But the point is that there has come no real charge of politics or partisanship from any source, which is little short of remarkable. In the matter of curtailing governmental expenditures he did not go nearly as far as many had hoped and his budget proposals, unquestionably will be slashed. On the other hand, he was concrete and unequivocal in his opposition to any further tax reduction at this time. That cuts straight at the heart of the political dogma.

ON THE prickly issue of labor legislation he was not nearly as straightforward in his recommendations as had been hoped by many and as would have been justified by his personal experiences of the past year. Nevertheless, he left no doubt of his conviction that restrictive measures are essential to protect the national interests, and certainly he made it clear that he had consulted no labor leaders as to what he should say. This, too, who never failed to consult and agree with them. In consequence, his labor utterances pleased no group and neither side. Sometimes that is the best test of a sound idea; but, in any event, it is not political.

OF COURSE, the outstanding demonstration that however much he may think about politics the President is not behaving as a politician in his appointment of Gen. George Marshall as Secretary of State. Not only is there no conceivable trace of politics in the selection of General Marshall but it does seem that if Mr. Truman were in any way trying to use his power as President to rehabilitate himself

Lady Throws Cane

One lady, who was unable to walk 6 weeks ago, due to rheumatic pains, says she is enjoying a normal life once again since she took Rhu-Aid. In fact, she says she has thrown her cane away. along normal political lines, that is the very last thing he would have done. For, sincerely as he deplores speculation on the subject, General Marshall is certainly a presidential possibility who cannot be ignored. His appointment as Secretary of State was generally recognized as making a "draft Marshall" movement in 1945 most likely, and it was followed by an outburst of Marshall-for-President stories in all sections of the press.

SOME suggested that Mr. Truman, personally anxious to retire, was deliberately building General Marshall up for the 1948 nomination. Others think that regardless of Mr. Truman's ideas, in another eighteen months General Marshall will have gained in stature to such an extent that he inevitably must be drafted. Others point out that if anything happens to Mr. Truman now General Marshall will automatically become President. Still others had other notions. The truth seems to be that Mr. Truman named General Marshall solely because he believed him to be the best equipped man in the United States to carry on the vital work so well begun by streaming into Harrisburg today for the ceremonies.

Duff will become Pennsylvania's 34th Governor and the thirteenth Chief Executive this month. Edward Martin served as Governor until January 2nd, when he resigned to assume his seat in the U. S. Senate. John C. Bell's 20-day interim will end tomorrow.

One of Duff's first official acts following his inauguration was expected to be the signing of the legislative personnel revision measure.

Sorg explained that Republican leaders hoped to secure final House approval of the deficiency appropriation for relief purposes on Wednesday and Senate passage of the bill by January 27th, the day before public assistance coffers were expected to be drained.

A speedup of legislative proceedings was anticipated by Wednesday with the initial flood of bills expected to be tossed into legislative hoppers that day.

Consideration of measures will be possible following the appointments of committee members. Senate President pro tempore Weldon B. Heyburn, of Delaware, was slated to announce members of the upper chamber's committees this afternoon.

Selections of the committee on committees were expected to be announced tonight in the House of Representatives.

Confirmation of the 19-member cabinet named by Duff was expected in the Republican-dominated Senate. Under the State Constitution, the upper chamber must approve cabinet appointments.

A change in the law will be required to permit the confirmation of Brig. Gen. Frank A. Weber, of Beaver Falls, as Adjutant-General. Weber does not have the required 15 years' National Guard or Regular Army service. Speedy approval of the bill was anticipated.

Kitchenman, Croydon, Pa., became the bride of Mr. Joseph Schoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schoski, Burlington. The Rev. Fr. Buszka officiated.

Vocalist for the occasion was Mrs. Frances Ojowski, of Camden, N. J. The bride was attired in a gown of white broadcloth velvet, which featured a fitted bodice, long skirt with train, sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves. A fingertip veil of net with crown of satin, rimmed with orange blossoms; and white slippers were worn. She carried a bouquet of lilies with a white orchid in the center.

Miss Jenny Scordis, Bristol, Pa., was maid of honor, wearing a gown of deep rose satin, with high slit neckline, can sleeves, fitted bodice and long full skirt. A crown of flowers with pink veil, pink gloves and silver slippers were worn. Miss Ruth Kitchenman, Croydon, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, she wearing an identically styled gown of medium blue satin. She wore a crown of flowers with light blue veil, matching gloves and silver slippers. Both attendants carried bouquets of red roses.

Mr. Anthony Schoski attended his brother as best man. Mr. Edward Stansky, Burlington, served as usher. Mr. E. F. Kitchenman gave his daughter in marriage.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis,
Pastor,
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father we thank Thee for this day and the promise of a new week. We remember Thy faithfulness and our hearts break forth into doxologies and psalms of praise. Thou art so unchanging. Thou art so predictable. Thou art so good. "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow." We remembered Thee yesterday in the sanctuary. May we not have forgotten Thee today in the shop. We thank Thee for Thy many promises to us. Condition us, we sincerely pray, for more of Thy blessings. For the things we have been saved from, of which we have no knowledge, we give Thee sincere thanks. Bless our loved ones we pray in Jesus name. Amen.
